

JOB DESCRIPTION: Project Architect

Perspectus is seeking an architect or emerging professional with 5-8 years of practical experience in historic preservation. Responsibilities will include team leadership, building envelope investigation and analysis, report writing (including HSR), preparation of design and construction documents, construction administration, and field inspections for a variety of building types. A professional degree in architecture and/or historic preservation is required. License is preferred. Applicants should demonstrate experience working for an architectural firm and are expected to work in the office. Applicants should demonstrate familiarity with National Park Service Standards.

The ideal candidate should possess the following characteristics:

- Substantial field experience with historic preservation, restoration, adaptive use, and building envelope projects
- Proven track record in the development of construction documents and meeting deadlines
- Strong analytical, organizational, and writing skills
- Ability to work well with clients and to coordinate with inter-disciplinary teams
- Proficiency in AutoCAD or Revit and Microsoft Office
- Enthusiasm, passion for architecture and work with used and historic structures

COMPENSATION: Competitive compensation package
