

Historic Preservation Architect

Glavé & Holmes Architecture

Richmond, Virginia (On-site)

Job Summary:

We are seeking a skilled and passionate Historic Preservation Architect to join our team. The ideal candidate will have a strong foundation in architectural design and team leadership with specialized experience in historic preservation, adaptive reuse, and contextual design.

Key Responsibilities:

- Preservation-Focused Project Leadership: Lead architectural projects with a focus on historic preservation and adaptive reuse, from concept through completion. Manage project timelines, budgets, and resources while maintaining historical integrity and contextual relevance.
- Client & Stakeholder Engagement: Collaborate with clients, preservation consultants, community groups, and internal teams to develop design strategies that honor historical significance and meet contemporary needs.
- Documentation & Construction Administration: Lead the project team in producing detailed construction documents and specifications, including those required for preservation approvals and historic tax credits.
- Historic Research & Site Analysis: Conduct research, condition assessments, and historical documentation to inform design decisions and ensure compliance with preservation standards.
- Regulatory Compliance: Ensure projects meet local, state, and federal preservation guidelines, including those set by the Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historic Properties.
- Mentorship & Studio Culture: Mentor junior staff in preservation practices and contribute to a collaborative, mission-driven studio environment.

Qualifications:

- Professional degree in Architecture (B.Arch or M.Arch).
- Licensed Architect
- Minimum 10 years of experience in architectural practice, focused on historic preservation or adaptive reuse.
- Proficiency in Revit, AutoCAD, Adobe Creative Suite, and 3D modeling software (e.g., Rhino, SketchUp).
- Strong understanding of traditional building systems, materials, and preservation techniques.

- Excellent communication, collaboration, and organizational skills.
- Commitment to sustainable, community-centered design and preservation ethics.

Salary:

- Salary is commensurate with experience and skill level, with a minimum starting salary of $95,000.
